Atlantic City Expects Invasion of Female Employes During Summer.

Female Employes During Summer.

By JANE HILL.

Atlantic City, June 2.—War is responsible for a feminine invasion of Atlantic City this summer. The latest feminine-activity will probably be collecting nickels on trolley cars, for the trolley companies admit they are facing a shortage of men, and have appealed for women substitutes.

When the women of Atlantic City took a census to get the efficiency of Atlantic City womanhood one of the questions asked was: "In case of need, would you serve as a trolley conductor or motorman."

In former years, trolley managers were deluged with applications from college students, who wanted an opportunity to spend the summer at the shore. This year, college boys are dividing their interests between the army, farms and munition factories. The need of the army for physicians may also cause a shortage of beach surgeons, so girl physicians may help to resuscitate the bathers this summer, and it is even hinted there may be feminine chair-pushers.

mer, and it is even hinted there may be feminine chair-pushers.

Meanwhile, the summer girl is being merry while she may and is kept busy planning a round of festive gatherings, and arraying herself in lovely raiment. Each day sees the launching of some new fashion conceit.

The boardwalk is not only colorful due to the predominance of gay stripes and plaids; but it is made dazallngly bright by the vogue for searchlight satim, which is all its name implies. Search-light satin frocks and hats cast an aura of loveliness about the wearer that is most appealing, so even on a cloudy day, the Great Wooden Way is never dull.

Knitting on Beach.

Knitting on Beach.

Down on the strand, the beach blankers, spread out on the sand to protect frocks, form a gay background for knitting parties, for every one knits these days for knitting parties, for every one knits these days.

Bloomers, be it known are blooming all over the strand. Beach sirens who used to promenade up and down in flossy silk bathing suits and high-heeled slippers, are no more. They have given place to the athletic maid, who goes in for swimming and all kinds of aquatic sports, and for this reason refuses to be hampered by cumbersome skirts. The new bloomer rigs are very jaunty and becoming, and are considered far more modest than the short-skirted Jersey costumes introduced last year.

Inasmuch as many of the life guards the short skirted Jersey costumes introduced last year.

Inasmuch as many of the life guards they practice military tactics on the strand before the bathing hour opens.

The resort is now bending all its efforts to the support of the liberty lean. Fashionable caid clubs are deling away with prizes and are using the money to buy bonds.

Changes in Chelses.

Changes in Chelsen.

The Hotel Breakers has taken the injative in shaving a model nursery for children as a part of its equipment. A tour department is now maintained in connection with the Breakers. There will be many changes in the sky line of Chelsea before another year rolls around. The twelve-story apartment house is being built at Brighton avenue and the Boardwalk.

A great many changes in the beach line are also noticed. The beach has widened materially between the old pler at Tennessee avenue, and the Traymore, where bathing, except at low tide was impossible last summer. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Corby are at the Traymore, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Corby.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Vandergrift are at the Brighton, accompanied by Mrs. George A. Garrett. Mrs. G. M. Foff is also there with Mrs. Harrison Russell, and Mrs. Nathan C. Wyett is accompanied by Mrs. Dabney.
Mrs. Edward B. McLean and son are at the Traymore, accompanied by Miss Margaretta MacVeagh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne MacVeagn. The McLeans had a cottage here last season, and will probably take a residence in Chelsea for the summer.
Lieut. and Mrs. H. C. Folk, of Fort Howard, are at the Traymore, and Gen, and Mrs. George L. Andrews have joined the army set at the Mariborough-Blenheim. Miss Emily O. Battles is with them.

Storage of U. S. Butter Increases Last Month

Creamery butter held in cold storage on June 1, showed an increase of more than 20 per cent over the quantity-held June 1, 1916, the Department of Agriculture announced yesterday.

Total holdings reported by 217 concerns were $431.40 pounds, as compared with 7.016.731 held June 1 last year.

"The reports of 283 firms show that their holding increased 6,222.965 pounds or 280.5 per cent during May this year," the department's report adds.
